TO TESTIFY OR NOT TESTIFY? - IS THE CHOICE UNFAIR TO THE INNOCENT?

by Morrison Bonpasse

18 January 2014

One of the most important decisions a defendant charged with crimes will make is whether to testify at his/her trial. Criminal defense lawyers often have strong opinions about the choice, but their views are surely influenced by the reality that most of their clients actually did commit the crime, or a related crime. Rarely are lawyers asked what choice they would recommend when their client claims innocence, and provides a sound basis for that claim.

Created in 2011, the National Registry of Exonerations (NRE) has collected the facts about 1,284 exonerations, since 1989, of wrongly convicted people. There is a summary at the NRE website about each exoneree.

From those summaries, the following totals are extracted:

201 16% testified.

35 3% did not testify.

122 10% pled guilty or “no contest” or similar plea.

926 72% uncertain.

Two Hundred One exonerees testified, which raises the question of how a jury or judge could find a defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt when the defendant testified that s/he did not commit the crime. It’s understandable how a jury might not believe a defendant who presents his/her claim of innocence, but extending that disbelief to a standard of disbelief beyond a reasonable doubt should be a long journey.

Of the 1,284 summaries, only 35 clearly stated that the defendants/exonerees did not testify. Even though judges caution juries not to draw adverse inferences from a defendant’s exercise of his/her constitutional right not to testify, it’s assumed that many juries DO infer guilt from such non-testimony. In other words, juries like to hear the defendant’s story.

For another article is the question of how 122 of the 1,284 could have been persuaded by prosecutors and/or their lawyers to plead guilty to crimes they did not permit. The primary answer is that each defendant/exoneree feared something worse than the sentence to be delivered after a plea. Often these guilty pleas arose from false confessions.

The American/British adversarial justice system purportedly is designed to present the truth, and it should be designed to encourage innocent defendants to present effectively their claims of innocence. However, for the 1,280+ exonerees since 1989, the presentation of that truth has not succeeded. Further, the adversarial system seems to discourage innocent defendants from even testifying at their own trials.

Christopher Slobogin, in his article “Lessons from Inquisitorialism” (http://papers.ssrn.com/sol3/papers.cfm?abstract_id=2320103) proposed that defendants be required to testify with certain limitations, as is the case in Europe. The U.S. Constitution’s protection against such a requirement was designed to avoid the abuses of the Middle Ages, but our founders didn’t foresee the risks of frequent wrongful convictions.

The largest category is for the 926 exonerees whose choices were “uncertain.” That is, it cannot be determined from the NRE summaries whether the defendant testified. Because that number is so large, and because researching the correct answer (testify or not testify) would take too long, the research for this article is suspended for now.
